SARAZEN TIES ESPINOSA FOR U.S. OPEN LEAD

Two Pros Total 142 With Sparkling Golf, Topping Bobby Jones.

ATLANTAN SHOOT 75, DESPITE CLOUDBURST

Trails Leaders 2 Strokes After Masterful Effort in Afternoon Rain.

HAGEN, SMITH AMONG STARS WHO FALTERED

Armour and Von Elm Are Still Rated as Having Chance With Final Round Today.

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 28 (A.P.)—A terrific storm that at times bore every resemblance to a cloudburst struck the national open golf championship today, scattered the hopes all over the place and helped remove the famous Atlanta amateur, Bobby Jones, from the leadership, as the field wound up the first half of the spectacular 72-hole championship battle.

Early in the morning, before the stormy gale gathered full headway and broke over the bunched battalions, stocky Gene Sarazen, of New York, champion in 1922, and equally sturdy Al Espinosa, Spanish star from Chicago, shot out in front, deadlocked with totals of 142 each for 36 holes that witnessed attacks throughout the day and throughout the disastrous downpour. Sarazen, supremely confident and putting in sensational fashion, duplicated his first day's score of 71. Espinosa a few minutes later added a par 72 to his 70 of the opening day to create a deadlock that Bobby Jones failed to break after a gallant effort under conditions unprecedented for open championship competition.

Ties for Third With 144.

Followed by the greatest and also the most thoroughly soaked gallery of the day, Jones started with the storm, fought the gale and rain with dramatic brilliance, but finally finished his second round with 75, 3 over par.

A bad 6 on the seventeenth hole just when it appeared his rally would at least carry him into a tie with the pace-setters forced Jones to forfeit the advantage gained by his remarkable 69 yesterday, and with a total of 144, dropped back into a tie for third place with 24-year-old Denham Shute, of Columbus, Ohio, the "dark horse" of the narrowed group now remaining in the fight for America's greatest golfing honors. Shute added a fine 71 today to his opening 73.

The net results of as hectic a day as the national open has ever known served to reduce the array of contenders to no more than about eight stars, remove the 1928 champion, Johnny Farrell, from further competition altogether with a shocking total of 167 for 36 holes, and leaving a sliver of the slight remaining title chances of Walter Hagen, the British open king, and Horton Smith, the sensation of the winter season and holder of the open French crown. Hagen, adding 81 to his 76, totaled 157, to be 15 strokes back of the leaders, while Smith, attaching a 77 to his first round of 76, was at 153 and out of the running.

Tommy Armour in Running.

With the field reduced to some 65 competitors out of the original entry of 192 for the final double-barreled chase of 36 holes tomorrow, the main fight centers among the twin leaders, Espinosa and Sarazen, along with the next pair, Shute and Jones. Should any of these four slip off the race, Tommy Armour, who added a brilliant 71 late today to his 74 of yesterday for 145, may be ready to step into the breach.

Six strokes behind, but nevertheless threatening, are Leo Diegel, 74-74-148, and Leonard Schmutte, of Lima, Ohio, with 75-75-148. In eighth place, another stroke away, loomed the blonde amateur ace, George Von Elm, of Detroit, who shot himself back into the picture with a sensational 70, 2 under par, and a 36-hole total of 140. The main drama of the day centered about the stalwart figure of Bobby Jones, not only because the Georgian attracted fully two-thirds of the entire gallery, but because he furnished the fireworks of a desperate, even though losing, fight against par and the elements to retain the lead.

Storm Breaks as Jones Starts.

The storm broke as Jones drove off, gained its full fury on the fifth, where a costly 6 spotted his card, and lasted until the twelfth hole as a soaked, disheveled gallery sloshed through the mud and water to this three-cornered struggle involving Jones, Old Man Par and the weather.

After trouble in the traps on the first few holes, Jones hooked a tee shot from the fifth that struck a spectator and bounded back on the fairway. This was a favorable "break" in the midst of a storm.

Clubs Raided in Hunt For Marlow's Slayer

Witness Is Found Who Saw N. Y. Racketeer Begin Fatal Ride

New York, June 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—More than 100 detectives crashed into Broadway night haunts, scoured the streets for informers and grilled a dozen witnesses today in an attempt to batter their way through the cunning underworld maze hiding the murderers of Frank Marlow, Broadway racketeer.

The detectives are keyed to a fever pitch of activity by Police Commissioner

Whalen, who has watched but a few hours of sleep during the four days since Marlow sprawled headlong out of an automobile near Flushing, bullet-riddled and dying.

After today's raids, witness grillings and investigations, Commissioner Whalen told what he could of the progress made toward solving the most important case in the city.

2 MOUNTAIN RANGES DISCOVERED BY BYRD

Expedition Also Explores More Than 20,000 Antarctic Miles, Says Report.

LAND IS CLAIMED FOR U. S.

The Byrd expedition to the Antarctic has discovered two new mountain ranges and has seen more than 20,000 square miles of hitherto unknown areas, according to a report received yesterday by the Secretary of the Navy from Commander Richard E. Byrd.

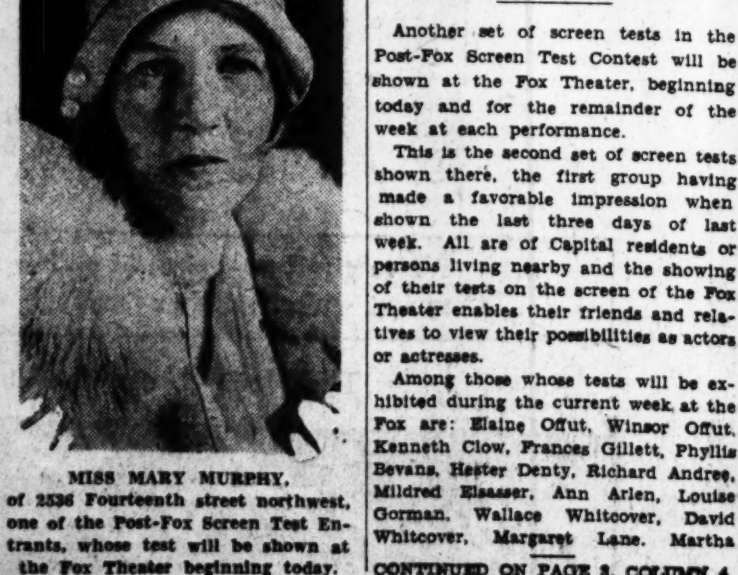

Commander Byrd reported that a survey of the mountain ranges that has been named the "Rockefeller Range," shows that there are 40 peaks and ridges, half of which exhibit patches of bare rock. They are irregularly arranged in an arc beginning in latitude 78 degrees 14 minutes south, longitude 155 degrees 18 minutes west.

The survey of the second range, which is located to the east of the Rockefeller Range, has not been completed. The highest peak in this range, however, is estimated at 5,000 feet and resembles in appearance the Matterhorn. From this peak an imposing range runs in a southeasterly direction in the land east of 150 meridian, which has been named "Marie Byrd Land," and has been claimed for the United States, Commander Byrd reported.

Still a third smaller group of mountain peaks has been discovered, but no survey made. This will be done next year. Capt. A. C. McKinley, Commander Byrd said in his report, has made an aerial survey of the Bay of Whales and the coast line as far as including the Hal Flood Bay, about 80

TRAFFIC DRIVE HITS 240 MORE ON SECOND DAY

Increased Motorcycle Unit Presses Campaign to End Abuses.

PRECINCT POLICE AID; TAKE MANY IN TOILS

Autoists Slow to Grasp Ideas; Judge Given Jails Truck Operators.

SEVERAL ACCIDENTS; 4 CHILDREN INJURED

Three of Youngsters Knocked Down by Cars; Woman Pedestrian Victim.

(United Press.)

Violators of traffic regulations, it seems, are slow to learn that the way of the transgressor is hard. Arrests yesterday jumped to 240, made by both the traffic squad, with its additional motorcycle men, and by policemen of the precincts. And at the same time Judge Ralph Given, sitting in Traffic Court, meted out penalties averaging about double the customary average.

The 240 was 18 more than on the previous day, the first day of the campaign. The traffic squad made 108 arrests for traffic violations. Of these, the regular members of the squad brought in 86, while the fifteen additional policemen recruited for the drive from the precincts accounted for 22. Infractions listed on the blotter included everything from driving over a fire hose to speeding and reckless driving, with the two latter the predominating charges.

And while the traffic squad was busy rounding up its quota of offenders, the various precincts throughout the city were by no means loafing on the job. Their total of arrests for various violations was 132, in which Precinct No. 1 led by a substantial margin with 36. No. 2 was second with 26, and Nos. 5 and 12 were at the bottom, neither precinct having made any traffic arrests throughout the day.

Truck Drivers Are Jailed.

Judge Given has announced a particular grievance against speeding motor trucks and ten drivers who faced him in court yesterday on that charge were assessed penalties much more severe than heretofore. Three, in default of fines, are in jail. They are Claude Ringer, of 321 Ninth street southeast, who is serving 30 days in default of a total fine of $38 on charges of speeding in a motor truck and of driving without permit; Ernest Skinner, of 447 King court, and Walter Hawkins, of 23 P street northeast, each of whom is serving ten days.

In the past, speeding in a motor truck has been among the less frequent charges serving as basis for arrest, but now it is ranking among the leaders. The fastest speed involved in any of the truck cases yesterday was 28 miles an hour, and the average was only about 20. The legal limit for trucks is 15 miles per hour for all solid-tired vehicles.

As a further result of activities of the police, traffic accidents again were held down to a minimum, only six being reported. Four of these, however, involved injuries to children.

Six Accidents Reported.

An automobile driven by Sarevio J. Guglielmini, 19 years old, of 819 Eighth street northwest, headed south on Eighth street at L street northeast, collided with a car operated by James J. Erwin, 46 years old, of 2434 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who was headed east. Guglielmini suffered lacerations of his left hand and was given medical aid at Casualty Hospital by Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, who said his condition was not serious.

George Moore, 16 years old, of 809 K street northwest, is in Emergency Hospital with internal injuries, suffered when the bicycle which he was riding at Connecticut avenue and N street

U. S. RELATIONS WITH FRANCE IN PERIL ON DEBTS

Postponing of Payments for War Stocks Now Seems Impossible.

CONGRESS APPROVAL NECESSARY TO MOVE

Good Will Created by Hop of Lindbergh Strained by Situation.

STIMSON POWERLESS, HE INFORMS CLAUDEL

Poincare, in Paris, Continues Fight for Ratification of Mellon Plan.

(United Press.)

Bonds of Franco-American good will created by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's transatlantic flight were being subjected to severe strain yesterday in connection with payment of a $407,000,000 French debt to the United States which falls due August 1.

Congress voted to postpone payment of this debt, which covers surplus war materials purchased by France, provided she ratifies before August 1 the Mellon-Berenger agreement for funding her major war debt. But Premier Poincare, acting upon a resolution of the French Parliament, has asked Ambassador Claudel here to seek postponement of payment of this debt without any condition.

Ambassador Claudel informed Secretary of State Stimson yesterday of the desire of the French Parliament for postponement.

In Stimson's opinion the maturity date can not be altered without congressional action, which is impossible because Congress has no money.

Sympathy for Claudel Shown.

There is sympathy here for Claudel's plight, but no official intimation he will be permitted to institute formal negotiations for postponement. As a last resort President Hoover might appeal to Attorney General Mitchell for a ruling as to his authority to fix the maturity at a later date. Such action would invite congressional opposition, it is believed.

The feeling in Congress is that the United States already has gone more than half way in the matter of the French debt in the resolution passed on the last day of the recent session authorizing postponement provided the French Parliament had ratified the Mellon-Berenger debt funding agreement before that time.

The Mellon-Berenger agreement is to fund the entire $400,000,000 war debt owed the United States. The debt for $407,000,000 was incurred separately by the purchase of surplus war supplies for which the A. E. F. had no further use after the armistice was signed. The Mellon-Berenger agreement absorbs this debt, but until that agreement is ratified it stands alone and must be paid in cash August 1.

Both Conferees Silent.

Neither Stimson nor Claudel would discuss their conversation yesterday. The French Embassy said the debt was the subject of discussion. The United States Congress and the French parliament appear adamant in their respective positions. During debate in Paris the debt of $407,000,000 was described as a knife at the throat of France designed to compel France to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

Discussion of the resolution passed by Congress included speeches in which it was charged the United States had in fact cancelled all the debts contracted during the war and was requiring the debtors to pay over a period of 62 years only a sum representing 2.17 per cent interest on the canceled obligations.

European war debts owed the United States have been a fruitful source of anti-American sentiment. From time

HOOVER NAMES STONE, DENMAN AND WILLIAMS TO FARM RELIEF BOARD

Complete Organization Is Promised August 1 by President.

KENTUCKY MAN LIKELY TO GET CHAIRMANSHIP

List of Those Indorsing Appointees Revealed With Sketches.

FRANK LOWDEN BACKS BURLEY GROWERS HEAD

Three or Four More Members Expected to Accept This Week.

(Associated Press.)

James C. Stone, of Kentucky; C. B. Denman, of Missouri; and Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, were appointed yesterday by President Hoover as members of the Federal Farm Board, created by the new administration farm relief act.

The Chief Executive said he hoped to have the acceptance of three or four more members by the middle of next week, and added that it was his belief that the full board of eight would be able to organize by August 1.

While Mr. Hoover made no designation of a chairman among the group of three announced yesterday, the general expectation is that Mr. Stone, who is the founder and president of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, will be designated as chairman. When he was here recently for conferences with the President, Mr. Stone was quoted as saying that he could not afford to relinquish his present position except for the chairmanship of the farm body.

List of Backers.

After the names were made public by the President, it was explained at the White House that Secretary Hyde, of the Agriculture Department, had been earnestly cooperating with farm organizations and others interested in making the selections for the board, and there was made public the names of the organizations and individuals who indorsed each of the three men.

The list appended to the brief sketch of Mr. Stone was by far the most formidable and included Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination which Mr. Hoover won, and one of the foremost proponents of the equalization fee plan of farm relief. Mr. Stone was described in the White House announcement as follows:

"Stones, James C.; Lexington, Ky., born Richmond, Ky., 1878; owner of livestock farms. A founder 1921 and president of Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, doing business of $50,000,000 yearly. Director of Fayette National Bank, Joint State Land Bank of Kentucky. Member Board of Public Safety, Louisville, 1910-11."

History of Denman.

This brief history was given by Mr. Denman: "Denman, C. B., president of National Livestock Producers Association, headquarters in Chicago. Owner of livestock farm near Farmington, Mo. The National Livestock Producers Association is a farmers' cooperative operating in 12 states, doing business of $180,000,000 annually."

Of Mr. Williams, the announcement said: "Williams, Carl, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Born in Indiana, Scientific Farming Association, Colorado, 1904-5; farming and irrigation work, 1905-19; editor Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman since 1919; director Liberty National Bank, Oklahoma City; organizer of Oklahoma Cotton Growers Association; ex-president, American Cotton Growers Exchange, Southwest Wheat Growers Association; American Agricultural Editors Association; vice chairman, National Council Farmers Cooperative Marketing Association; former member United States Board of Mediation."

James J. Davis Asks 'Public' Nomination

Wants to Be Governor of Pennsylvania; Assails G. O. P. Machine.

(United Press.)

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, popularly known as "Jim Davis," will leave President Hoover's Cabinet and run for Governor of Pennsylvania if the people show they want him and if he is assured of "an honest count."

He wants no "back-room nomination" by the gang, and will not take such a nomination, he said. He also explained that if he does enter the race he does not intend to spend a lot of money. Whether he will run depends upon a survey now being made in Pennsylvania by his friends. The primary is next May.

Pennsylvania is notorious for large primary campaign expenditures and charges of fraud were hurled about freely in investigation by the Senate of the senatorial primary three years ago, when over $2,000,000 was spent.

The rather novel views of the man who holds with another Pennsylvanian (Secretary of the Treasury Mellon) the distinction of the longest Cabinet service in recent times, were given to the United Press in an interview at the office of the Labor Department here, which he has occupied for over eight years.

"I've never put public office on a competitive commercial basis," Davis declared. "I will not enter a race of that sort."

He smiled, reflectively.

"And, anyhow, others have thou-

Ford Prefers Older Men In His Plants, He Reveals

Ideal Age Between 35 and 60, Auto Magnate's Article Says.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 28 (A.P.)—Henry Ford, in the July issue of the Ladies Home Journal, says that he should prefer, if he could make the choice, to have all his employees between 35 and 60 years of age.

"For then," the automobile manufacturer adds, "we should have a stable and experienced force. We would not care how much over 60 the men were so they could do their work."

"Under no circumstances would we have a working force made up of only young men," Ford says. "It is absolutely necessary, in order to get the work through, to have a solid framework of older and more experienced men who know exactly what they are doing."

"It is not to be expected that a man of 70 will have as much endurance as one of 25. It is not at all

HAWKS SETS RECORD FOR WEST-EAST HOP

Flier Lowers His Own Time by 40 Minutes in Flight From Los Angeles.

IS HIS SECOND NEW MARK

(United Press.)

Roosevelt Field, N. Y. (Saturday), June 29 (U.P.)—Capt. Frank Hawks, seeking to break his West-to-East transcontinental nonstop flight record, arrived here from Los Angeles early today. The flier succeeded in making the trip from the West Coast without a stop. It was the second leg of a round-trip flight which started at Roosevelt Field at 3:37 a. m. Thursday, and in completing it Hawks established a record for having traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again in faster time than the trip ever was made before.

Capt. Hawks arrived at the field here at 12:15 a. m. (Eastern standard time), making his time for the flight 17 hours and 42 minutes. The old West-to-East record was 18 hours and 22 minutes.

Hawks made his East-to-West nonstop flight in 19 hours and 10 minutes, setting a new mark for the trip in that direction also. After arriving in Los Angeles he remained only 7 hours and 14 minutes before starting the grueling trip back to Roosevelt Field.

On landing, the flier overshot the field and crashed into a galvanized wire fence, but was not hurt. He jumped out of his record-breaking plane smiling and was greeted by a crowd of field employees who had been

GOULD LETTERS HELD NO DRY LAW MENACE

McBride Declares His Comments on Grape Juice Are Not of Great Importance.

HINTS DOOM POLITICALLY

(Associated Press.)
P. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antislavery League, declared yesterday the letter of Senator Gould (Republican), Maine, to a grape-juice company advising that he had used its product with "some very fair results" would have little influence one way or the other upon the solution of the liquor problem.

"It is very clear," Dr. McBride said in a statement, "that any senator who would make himself so ridiculous as to order grape mash from the Fresno Vineyard Co., of St. Louis, and then write them a letter in which he states that he had obtained 'some very fair results' and who followed that statement by stating that while he is from a prohibition State he does not hesitate to say to them that he opposes prohibition, but does not find it policy to be too outspoken, etc., can not exert any influence worth while either for the wet side or the dry side."

Senator "100 Per Cent Wet."
Declaring the senator had made a "100 per cent wet record" this year in Congress by voting against the Jones-Baile bill and amendments to increase penalties for prohibition violation, McBride charged that Gould had pretended to be a dry while a candidate for the Senate.

"It is a good thing," he concluded, "that the people of Maine have now had the opportunity to find the real attitude of their senatorial representative, especially in view of the fact that he will come up for reelection next year."

St. Louis, June 28 (A.P.).—United States Senator Arthur R. Gould of Maine, expected some "fine wine" from a shipment of "cordial" he purchased from the Fresno Vineyard Co., of St. Louis, in 1927, according to a second letter he wrote the company which was made public here in connection with a lawsuit in Federal court.

Uniontown, Pa., June 28 (A.P.).—A peak windstorm, appearing much like a small cyclone, struck today at Farmington, on the National highway east of here. Many trees were uprooted and poles blown down. Wire communication into the region was interrupted.

necessary that he should have, for by the time a man has reached 70 he ought to have something of a great deal more valuable than physical strength.

"The records of the employment department show that the work which calls for endurance is best served as a rule by men who are 40 and over. Younger men seem to tire of jobs of this kind rather quickly and want to be transferred to lighter work."

"Having lived a number of years," Mr. Ford says, "is a great advantage to any one if these years have brought a background of experience. It is usual to associate age with years only because so many men and women somewhere along in what is called middle age stop trying. They let themselves be old."

PLANE CRASH KILLS 2 FLIERS; 1 INJURED

Lieut. W. G. Plummer and Cadet C. J. Wallace Die When Their Ships Collide.

ANOTHER ESCAPES DEATH

Riverside, Calif., June 28 (A.P.).—Lieut. William G. Plummer and Flying Cadet Cyril J. Wallace were killed in an airplane accident at March Field today. A second plane, piloted by a cadet, scraped the wing of Lieut. Plummer's craft, causing it to crash.

Cadet Letzig, whose home address was not announced, was the pilot of the second plane. Field officials said they believed Letzig was without fault and that the accident was unavoidable. Letzig landed safely.

Lieut. Plummer, 38 years old, came from Mobile, Ala. Cadet Wallace, 22, lived at San Gabriel, Calif.

Mitchell Field, June 28 (A.P.).—The luck of Lieut. Maxwell Balfour held good today, though others all around him were less fortunate. He was 3,000 feet in the air, teaching Corp. Elmer Berry how to fly, when his all-metal Army observation plane caught fire. The plane crashed and Berry was critically injured and burned, but Lieut. Balfour escaped with burns that doctors characterize as superficial.

A few hours before an endurance plane had fallen nearby, killing John Ashcraft, a commercial flier, and critically injuring Viola Gentry, the copilot.

Lieut. Balfour won a name for himself as a lucky flier last year when a plane fell apart under him during a test flight at 6,000 feet, and he and a companion floated safely to earth in parachutes.

Edward Carpenter, poet, dies. Guildford, Surrey, England, June 28 (A.P.).—Edward Carpenter, poet and author and a pioneer in the socialist movement in England, died today, aged 85. In 1894 he visited the United States, and was a guest of Walt Whitman, famous American poet.

Other American Embassies As Well as Dawes' Are Dry

London, June 28 (A.P.).—The American Embassy in London, now "dry" in accordance with the decision of Ambassador Dawes, is not the only "dry" spot in the American diplomatic service.

No spirits have been served in the American Legation in Denmark for the past two years.

The embassy in Berlin is officially dry and only tea and coffee were served at the "housewarming" in April, the only official entertainment yet held in the new building. The situation, however, is not comparable to that in London, because the embassy building houses only the chancery and not the ambassador's residence. Consequently there is little entertaining there.

Since his arrival, Ambassador Schumann always has lived in private quarters at his own expense. At official dinners in the past the ambassador followed the European custom of serving the usual wine courses.

The American Embassy in Paris has been closed since the death of Ambassador Herrick. No liquor ever is served in the diplomatic chancellery, which is the only part of the embassy now functioning.

Another American minister at Oslo is a total abstainer and the question of serving alcoholic beverages or of following the example of Ambassador Dawes has not arisen there.

The embassy at Madrid said that no change had been ordered at the Madrid Embassy regarding the character of refreshments that may be served there, while the embassy in Rome had no comment to make on Ambassador Dawes' action.

So far as could be ascertained, none of the American Embassies in southern Europe and the Balkans has yet followed the Dawes example, although a number of American diplomats at these places rarely if ever touch liquor unless invited out to dinner. They feel international courtesy and ordinary hospitality require them to serve their foreign guests with their customary refreshments.

Papers of Mexico Shun Church News

Interior Department Clamps Down Lid; Cables Also to Be Censored.

Mexico City, June 28 (A.P.).—Mexico City newspapers, which for a week have devoted a great deal of space to the settlement of the religious controversy between church and state, today appeared without a line of news or a single picture referring to the reopening of the churches or dealing with religion.

This was understood to be the result of requests by the department of the interior to newspapers to diminish the importance of the place accorded that class of news. The exact reason for the department's request was not forthcoming, but it was understood that strenuous protests to the government by anti-clericals motivated it.

Foreign correspondents were advised that the government censorship would be established on outgoing and incoming cables particularly relating to the religious question. The censorship was immediately effective, but the censor had not arrived at the cable office by 9:30 this morning.

Several Visiting Ministers To Preach Here Tomorrow

English Pastor Will Be Guest at Central Presbyterian; Albright Memorial Evangelical Congregation to Celebrate Third Anniversary.

The Rev. R. C. Gille, for many years pastor of the Marplestone Presbyterian Church, of London, England, will preach at both services at the Central Presbyterian Church tomorrow. Dr. Gille is well known throughout England and Scotland as one of the leading Presbyterian preachers. He is at present pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Bath, England.

The series of union services which started last Sunday at All Souls Unitarian Church will be continued tomorrow morning, with the Rev. Ulysses O. B. Pierce preaching. He will take for his subject "Thank God for a Dream."

The Rev. John D. Gregory, the visiting pastor at the Church of the Covenant, who is occupying the pulpit at that church during the summer, will preach tomorrow morning on "The Law in Our Heart."

The third anniversary of the Albright Memorial Evangelical Church will be celebrated tomorrow at both the Sunday school and church services. The charter members of the Sunday school will have charge of the former service.

At 11 o'clock the Rev. George Schnepf, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, will preach on "Ourselves: People's Tribes of Love and Praise." The service will be featured by special music. The Albright Church conducted its first service three years ago in a tent at the corner of Fourth and Rittenhouse streets.

Sermon by Guest Preacher.
The Rev. Silas Evans, president of Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., will be the guest preacher tomorrow morning at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. Dr. Evans has been one of the principal preachers at the Synod of Baltimore Conference at Hood College, Frederick, Md., during the last week. He is nationally known for the work he has done for young people at Occidental College in California and at Ripon College.

The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, will preach at the morning service on "When God Forgives." At the evening service, at 8 o'clock, he will preach on "Love Never Fails." His sermon will be illustrated by the motion picture "The Opening Night," featuring Clara Windsor and John Bowers.

The Rev. W. A. Lambeth, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church, will preach at the morning service on "The Stewardship of Personality." In the evening he will preach on "Napkin, Silken Robe or Towel?" The Rev. Haskell R. Deal, junior preacher, who has just returned from his vacation.

Fireworks Display Planned on Fourth

Starts Early to Attract Children on Grounds at Monument.

Climaxing the Fourth of July celebration in the Capital will be a 45-minute fireworks display on the grounds of the Washington Monument. The committee has announced yesterday that this display will begin at 9 o'clock so that children may witness it and still get home by bedtime. In addition to the usual bombs, rockets and flares, there will be some brand new displays according to Luther W. Linkins, chairman of the fireworks committee.

Previous to the fireworks display there will be a program at the Sylvan Theater on the Monument Grounds including a concert of a half hour by the United States Marine Band.

Commercial establishments have been urged by the Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July committee to display flags and bunting in order to help make the holiday a colorful one. It is desired also that private homes show flags and bunting for the Fourth.

Autelot Hurt While Changing Tire.
Daniel Bittorf, 24 years old, of 406 Second street northwest, received a possible fracture of the back and internal injuries about noon yesterday when the automobile on which he was changing a tire on the Alexandria road slipped from a jack and fell against him. His condition was reported as improving at Emergency Hospital, where he was given treatment by Dr. L. Rutkowski.

ULTRA VIRE.

President Hoover and Secretary Mellon have a ready-made answer to the last desperate appeal of the French politicians against paying America $400,000,000 which falls due on August 1 next for purchased war supplies. It is beyond the power of the executive branch of the Government to meet the French demand for postponement and Congress has already gone on record as insisting upon ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement prior to August 1 as a condition precedent to deferring America's demand for payment of the war supplies debt.

Premier Poincare of France, Ambassador Claudel, who appealed yesterday to Secretary Stimson for postponement, and the majority of the French chamber realize that France has at last reached the end of her rope so far as further evading her obligations to American taxpayers is concerned. By ratifying the debt agreement France escapes the obligation of paying $400,000,000 on August 1 because the latter debt becomes merged in the main agreement. But if there is no ratification by August 1, the $400,000,000 must be paid upon America's demand for payment.

So the French government reluctantly finds itself forced to ratify to escape a payment which France does not propose to make if she can help it. If President Hoover can not be persuaded to sacrifice the rights of the American taxpayers, ratification is a foregone conclusion. But a last effort to escape the inevitable has now been launched.

The $400,000,000 which France will have to pay on August 1 is not a promise of the French government comparable to the repudiated pledges respecting the war debts owed to Americans. It is not something that France can waive aside by any of the excuses applicable to the main French obligations.

When France purchased accumulated stores of American war supplies which had belonged to the American Expeditionary Forces in France she paid for these supplies with ten-year 5 per cent gold bonds, dated August 1, 1919. Under the terms of the contract the French government delivered to the United States 400 of its ten-year gold bonds in the face amount of $1,000,000 each. These bonds are due and payable on August 1 next. France must pay them or plead bankruptcy to the ruin of her credit.

This contract was entered into under the authority of the act of Congress of July 9, 1918, which arranged for the disposal of American surplus stocks. France got the war stocks and America got the gold bonds. That was the contract entered into and authorized by Congress and no power outside of Congress can alter the terms.

Yet there seems to be surprise in France because Secretary Mellon is quoted as saying that France must either ratify the debt agreement or pay the $400,000,000. There seems to be a misapprehension over the effect of recent action by Congress in connection with postponing the date of demand for this amount.

The President and Secretary Mellon, realizing that Congress must give permission to postpone the demand for the $400,000,000, suggested emergency legislation which would make it possible legally for the executive to act in case France ratified the Mellon-Berenger agreement prior to August 1. As Congress has not yet ratified the agreement, it was certain that there could not be ratification by both countries before the date of maturity of the French gold bonds and the object of the legislation was to permit the executive to postpone demand for collection for a short period until the Mellon-Berenger agreement was ratified.

The House passed the resolution by a vote of 329-86 and the Senate likewise passed it but there was a technical defect in the bill in that it was not signed by the Speaker of the House in the rush of business on the day before adjournment. However, the sense of Congress was expressed in favor of authorizing postponement of the $400,000,000 demand, under the terms specifically laid down in the resolution acted upon.

This resolution, after the whereas portions, is as follows:

Resolved: That in the event that the agreement between the French republic and the United States (known as the Mellon-Berenger agreement) made on behalf of the United States by the World War Foreign Debt Commission and approved by the President, providing for the funding and payment of the indebtedness of the French republic to the United States, is ratified in France in accordance with the terms thereof, prior to August 1, 1929, the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, is authorized to enter into an agreement with the French republic providing for the postponement of the date of the maturity of the principal of its indebtedness in respect to its purchase of surplus war supplies, until the Mellon-Berenger agreement has been approved or disapproved by the Congress, but in no event shall such date be postponed beyond May 1, 1930.

Congress therefore has made ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement prior to August 1 next a condition precedent to any postponement and has made it clear that without fulfillment of the condition there can be no postponement. It is not necessary to speculate as to what President Hoover and Secretary Mellon would do if they had the authority to choose between protecting American taxpayers or appeasing French politicians.

TRANSATLANTIC FLYING.

The Spanish government finally has given up hope for the safety of Maj. Ramon Franco, who, with three companions, started out a week ago yesterday on a round trip flight to New York, and has abandoned the search that was carried on assiduously all week. What brought to a tragic end this gallant venture probably always will remain a mystery. The plane was last heard from off the coast of Portugal and somewhere between Portugal and the Azores it was forced down. Four nations—Spain, England, Italy and Portugal—joined in searching for the survivors or wreckage, and they did not abandon the search until the sea became so stormy as to make it highly improbable that the fliers could have survived.

Eight planes have flown across the horizon bound on transatlantic flights never to be seen again. Eleven planes have successfully negotiated the long and difficult trail. The pilots of each of the latter have agreed that transatlantic flying in present-day planes is fraught with danger and they have spoken as one to the effect that the weather prevailing over the Atlantic is "treacherous." What must have been the experience of those who failed in attempts to fly the Atlantic?

It seems to be apparent that conditions obtain over the Atlantic that have never been experienced by living aviators. Each of the planes that was used in attempts to link the continents was as good a ship as could have been obtained and each of the pilots started forth only after he was satisfied in his own mind that he could complete the journey. But he ran into unforeseen difficulties with which his plane was unable to cope. Obviously, transatlantic flying will not be practicable until planes suited to such flying are available and the mystery of transatlantic weather is solved.

TRIFLING WITH REDS.

The determination of the British Labor government to reestablish diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia is a concession to the radicals. In announcing to the dominion governments that Great Britain intends to take this step in the near future, Premier Ramsay MacDonald is merely fulfilling a campaign pledge. The industrial unrest which has plagued Britain in recent years and the attendant widespread unemployment seems to have increased the number of Soviet sympathizers, but the underlying reason why the Laborites favor resumption of relations is, no doubt, economic. Russia is regarded as a great potential market, and should the British gain the favor of the Soviets, its goods would be given preference. This would mean more work for Englishmen.

In taking this step the Labor government is entirely disregarding the findings of the British business delegation which recently went to Russia with a view to exploiting its markets. The business men were royally entertained and visions of large contracts for British goods were dangled before them. But when they came down to figures and facts all this rich commerce was dependent upon vast loans for the rehabilitation of industries the Communists have ruined. Now that diplomatic relations are to be reestablished, it will be interesting to watch how British commercial interests react.

The action of the Labor government is renewing agitation in this country for recognition of the Soviet. The increase of business between American and Russian interests is cited as a reason why the government should place its stamp of approval on the red regime. In some quarters the Stalin government is represented as willing to adjust the Russian debt to the United States as well as the question of confiscated American property. The instability of the Soviet government would make such concessions expedient if, in return, it were granted American recognition.

Objections to the communistic regime are, however, not fundamentally economic. The bolsheviks act on the theory that their communistic principles can not endure unless the world is converted to them. Hence the world is flooded with propaganda by the Russian Communist party. The United States will have nothing to do with a regime which seeks to preserve itself by destroying all other political systems. It is particularly difficult to understand why Great Britain, which is constantly annoyed by the spread of communism in India, is willing again to trifle with the reds.

BUDGETING FOR SICKNESS.

The high cost of medical and hospital treatment has been the subject of extensive research recently. Surveys show that well-to-do people are adequately served by the physician and that extensive charity work is being done, but a large proportion of the American people fall into the middle class, which will not accept charity and yet can only finance treatment for any protracted illness or serious operation with extreme difficulty. The Chicago Medical Society has been among the foremost organizations studying the situation, and now it announces a plan of relief.

The income of the average wage earner is usually not budgeted to take care of sickness. When sickness comes it is an emergency for which he is wholly unprepared. The modern budget plan of the Chicago Medical Society contemplates taking sickness out of the emergency class so that it will no longer be a burden on the family of average means. A corporation is to be organized to finance sickness on the deferred payment plan. Those who take advantage of this scheme will pay their doctor, or a hospital, on a basis similar to that now used in purchasing their automobiles, radios, etc.

So far as this arrangement extends, indiscriminate charity by physicians will be done away with. Patients will be left free to choose their own physician and will not be treated on the "mass-production" basis, which too often impairs the worth of free clinics. The physician chosen will diagnose the illness, indicating the proper treatment and its approximate cost. He will then fill out a card, giving details of the case. The card will serve as authorization to the finance corporation to advance a loan.

Public-spirited citizens of Chicago will be asked to supply the capital necessary for putting the plan into operation. The corporation to be formed will deal directly with physicians, paying them 35 per cent of the total bill as soon as the loan to the patient is authorized. The balance will be paid in installments, but the physician will receive only 86.37 per cent of his total fee. The remaining 13.63 per cent is considered the doctor's contribution to the budget plan and will be used to build a special fund against which all uncollectible loans will be charged. In such cases the physician will receive only the initial payment of 35 per cent. Medical fees are to be held to a reasonable minimum. No service charge will be made and only 6 per cent interest will be charged on the deferred payments.

The plan appears to have decided merits. Similar arrangements for financing the wage-earning class in other purchases have recently proved successful. The whole medical profession, and the public as well, will be interested in watching how it works out.

Twins are being married in Indiana and five other sets are officiating as bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls, etc., in the ceremony. The wedding breakfast menu, of course, will contain ham and eggs and sinkers and coffee.

LAND OF BLOCS

By OLIVER McKEE, JR.
In the Boston Transcript.

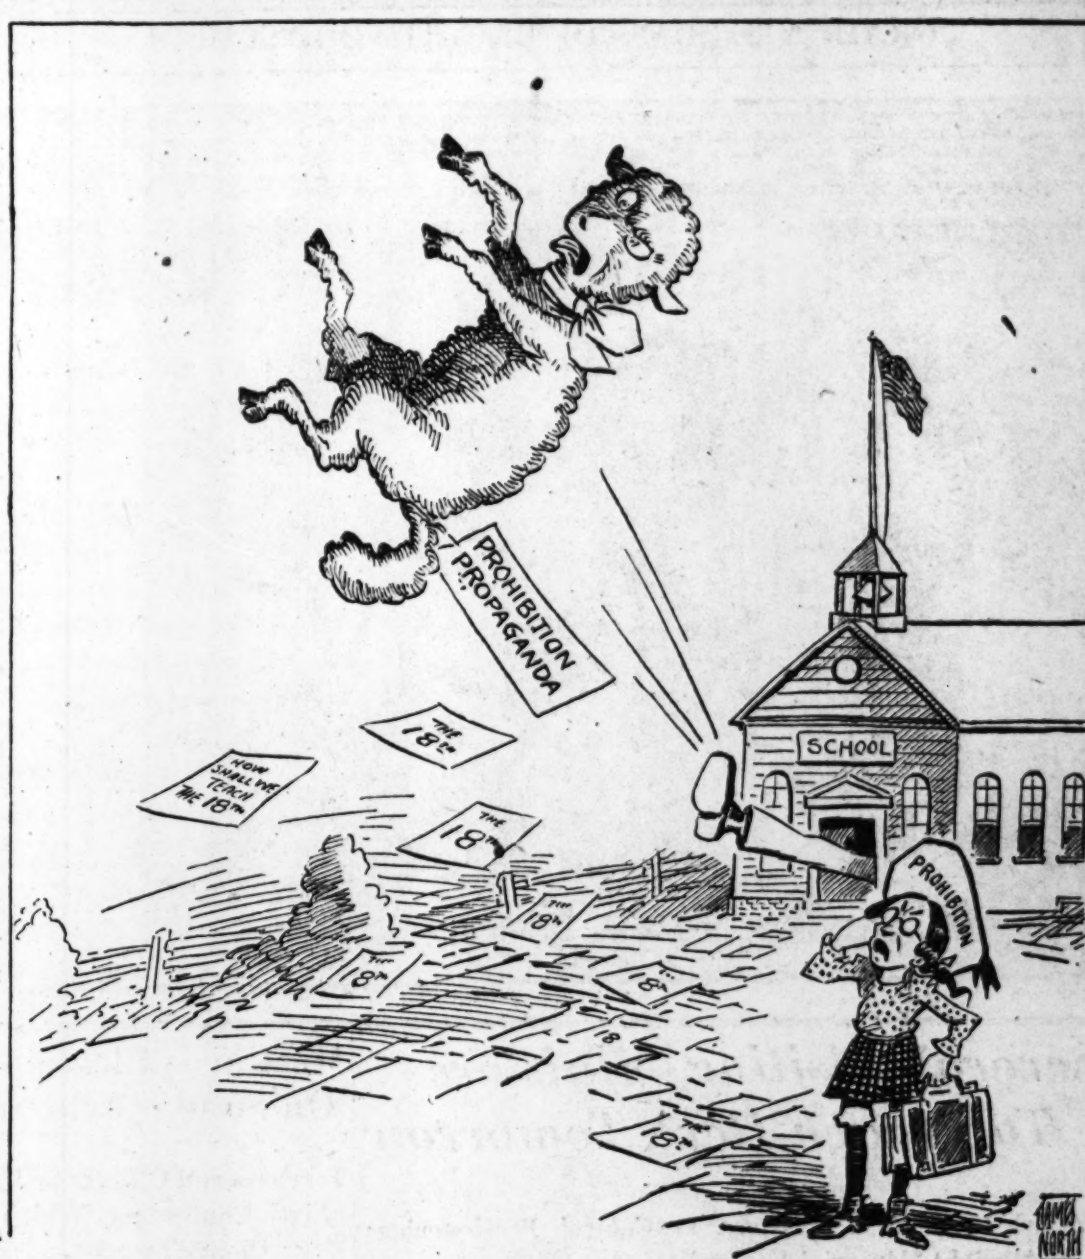

Third parties have been considered trouble makers here and in Great Britain, both countries with a strong two-party system. Since the third party has often upset the equilibrium and balance of the two-party system in American and British politics, we can easily understand some of the difficulties with which Poland, with twenty or more political parties, has had to contend. Up to May, 1926, the Sejm, or lower house of the Polish Parliament, exercised a disproportionate amount of power, for, in addition to its legislative functions, the Sejm has enjoyed certain executive functions. No one of the twenty political parties represented in its membership mustered sufficient strength to permit it even to approach a majority. This made it necessary for every government to be based on a coalition. Each bloc had its own pet projects, very often expensive to the taxpayers of the country, and in order to secure a working majority, each government had to make promises to the various groups constituting the parliamentary majority.

Early in April, Marshal Pilsudski, in a newspaper article, made a bitter attack on the present parliamentary system, denouncing in particular the Sejm. Government organs praised Pilsudski for the stand he took, on the ground that Parliament had not fulfilled its proper role, and that it needed to be taught a lesson. Opposition papers were outspoken on the other side. A heated political controversy followed, resulting in the creation of a new ministry presided over by Maj. Casimierz Sewalski, former minister of education, and one-time aide-camp to Pilsudski. Foreign Minister Zaleski retained his position, but new men were brought in to fill the other positions, belonging for the most part to the group of "colonels," as the followers of Pilsudski are known.

Meanwhile, throughout Poland generally a movement is gaining strong headway to balance the powers of the government by depriving the Parliament of the executive powers which it is claimed have been unlawfully assumed. The proposed changes would correspondingly strengthen the executive branch of the national government. The plan today is a very popular one, and Marshal Pilsudski is the leader of it. The nonpartisan bloc in the Sejm is made up of a number of political elements grouped together to cooperate in working out the reform program of Marshal Pilsudski. This bloc has recently passed a resolution recommending a revision of the constitution, and planning several changes in it.

The Parliament, composed of the Sejm (house of representatives) and the Senate will remain untouched as to its prerogatives. Accordingly, the principle of the election to the Sejm, by general, direct, secret, equal and proportionate vote, remains unchanged. The Sejm remains the organ of legislative authority, has the rights of legislative authority, of legislative initiative, passes upon the budget, upon changes in the recruiting contingent, and has the right to call to account both politically and constitutionally the governing authorities.

The president would be given the right of a legislative suspending veto, and the plan upholds the right of the president to issue decrees with legal authority, and makes the vote of loss of confidence in the government contingent upon the resolution taken by a qualified majority of the Sejm. It makes the ministers responsible to the president, and not only to the Sejm, gives the president authority as arbitrator in cases of conflict between the Sejm and the government, permitting him to choose in such a case either the resignation of the government or the dissolving of the Sejm, and increases the powers of the president as to regulating the sessions and order of the day of both houses, the Sejm and the Senate. All authorities of the government derive their powers from the general election. The Senate remains rather an advisory than a legislative body, as its amendments to laws can be rejected by a three-fifths majority of the Sejm. There are also to be inducted into the Senate 50 senators nominated by the president, so as to raise in this manner the professional level of this body. The government will be nominated and recalled by the president, but is also accountable to the Sejm. Poland, in a word, is to have a more efficient parliamentary machine, if Pilsudski and his supporters are able to put their program into effect.

DUMB LIFE.

This might have been a world for men alone.
A world where never bird nor beast were seen.
A place that only knew the spring-time's green
And summer's thirsty brown, and we had grown
To age and never heard the thrush's tone.
Or thrilled to see the beauty of a scene,
Or paused from sordid labor, for the sweet
And sweet delight of lives not like our own.

I used to wonder why the insects live,
Why all the countless creatures dumb were made;
Why birds pour out their melody and give
So much of rapture to their thankless trade.
But now I think they serve God's mighty plan:
They live to make life bearable for man.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:
Yesterday I received a letter from a lady who can't decide how to punish her 16-year-old daughter. It reminded me of the time I punished you by making you stay at home when your heart was set on a party.

"Please, Daddy," you said, "punish me in some other way and then let me go."

I didn't follow your suggestion, for any form of punishment that served to purchase the privilege you desired would have been no punishment at all.

If I should ask you now what form of punishment is "best" for a girl of your age, I have no doubt you would answer by saying: "What right has anybody to punish anybody?"

That is a big question, and the only answer I know is that necessity gives the right.

You may think you don't believe in punishment, but I am quite sure you do. You punish me and Miss Marcelle when we displease you—punish us deliberately and to the limit of your ability, by making us unhappy and ill-at-ease. And you punish Booze, your Boston terrier.

Perhaps you haven't tried to analyze it, but your method of dealing with him will illustrate the whole philosophy of punishment.

When he leaps and nips somebody's sleeve, you punish him because he is bad and you are provoked.

When he runs out the gate to bark at a passing car, you punish him to teach him wisdom and save his neck.

The first kind of punishment may be all right for a dog, but it isn't right for a child. I have been guilty of it, but never without subsequent shame—and I learned better years ago.

When I punish you, it is because I assumed the burden and privilege of shaping your character, and punishment is sometimes necessary to make a good job of it.

When the sculptor is preparing his clay model, he envisions a bronze woman faultlessly beautiful. Dreaming of her, he pats and pinches and shapes his clay to remove imperfections, and the lightest touch affects it, for it is soft and easy to work.

But when the model is finished and the mold prepared, there is no further opportunity to make corrections. Good or bad, beautiful or hideous, the bronze statue must be forever as the shaping of the clay model designed it to be.

You are clay now. Honey—a very precious clay, but clay none the less. A little punishment now and then is just the light touch of the artist's hand trying to brush away an imperfection. Maybe it hurts a little, but the finished bronze is all we need care about. There is no excellence without great labor—and spanking.

A Thousand Dollars a Day Rent for a Flower Shop Means That Many Will Have to "Say It With Flowers."

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: One thousand dollars a day is the amount that Mrs. George Van Namee has contracted to pay over a period of 31 years for the privilege of selling flowers in a shop in the Fifth Avenue district of New York City. Mrs. Van Namee, who with other former employees of Thorley, the florist, inherited the business when Thorley died, was confronted with the immediate necessity of obtaining a new location for her business. Finding a site which suited her, she entered into a lease for the property involving a total payment of $5,355,000 in 303 monthly installments. The lady who started only a few years ago in the establishment over which she now presides, has demonstrated that a woman can successfully conduct a big business. She also proved that the American people are lovers of flowers to a degree never dreamed of in the Old World, for to assure payment of such an enormous rental a colossal business is imperative.

It would seem, too, that in adopting the slogan, "Say It With Flowers," the ancient and honorable association of poets struck a gold mine. It is to be hoped that the wise men of Gotham will continue to "say it with flowers," the sweetest of things that can not be expressed in formal language, and thereby assist Mrs. Van Namee in meeting her monthly rent bills.

Richmond Republican Protesters State ment "There Were Not More Than 300 Delegates in Attendance"—The Post Explains.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: It is almost incredible that your representative at the Republican convention last night, Mr. Carlisle Barger, could have made any such statement as you credit him with this morning, namely, "at any rate, there were not more than 300 (delegates) in attendance." I simply can not understand how he could have made such a statement. Even the Times-Dispatch admitted that there were 1,500 present. As a matter of fact, the whole bottom floor was packed with delegates and alternates, and the officials of the Moeque Shrine, where the convention was held, state that the capacity of the lower floor is 2,000.

ROBERT H. TALLEY.

Editor's Note—The use of the figure 300 in an early edition of The Post was due to an error in transmission. In later editions the story credited the convention with the presence of 1,000 delegates and more than 1,500 interested spectators on the floor.

Dress Reform.
To the Editor of The Post-Sir: The reason men are uncomfortable in hot weather is because they try so hard to "look like something." Since the so-called tropical-weight suit has come into the markets men aren't as uncomfortable as they used to be, but they still try to keep their collars from wilting and they still believe that it's necessary to wear some sort of coat. Why don't they dress for comfort instead of for style?

My idea of sensible dress is as follows: The feet should be shod in sandals and socks should be done away with. Over lightweight underwear should be worn a pair of duck or linen trousers, and the shirt would be completed with a short, open at the neck. Why should men wear more than this in summer?

Appeals for President Hoover for Stopping One "Campaign," and a Suggestion for Another.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: President Hoover has let it be known that he does not favor the new nation-wide campaign which a republican minority wishes to launch against radicals. Some groups are always stirring up a campaign against something they do not like. The President is to be commended for putting a stop to this one. There is no need of conducting a drive against radicals in the United States. American citizens have always taken pride in the thought that they can believe what they please as long as they don't make themselves obnoxious to their neighbors. The country has too many sensational drives and campaigns which accomplish nothing, except to give politicians an excuse to boast of their Americanism. Were it not for my aversion to such methods I would suggest a campaign against campaigns.

Is Liquor Less Intoxicating When It Is Licensed? Wets Shamelessly Attribute All Crimes to Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Every crime due to liquor is shamelessly attributed to prohibition by the publicity managers of the wets. A man annoyed by a baby's crying beats the baby all night to death. He lays his crime to "bootleg liquor." Is liquor any less intoxicating when it is licensed? How many children were beaten up by drunkards in the days before prohibition? How many are beaten up every day in England and Scotland, which have no prohibition? Ask any of the charitable societies. Ask the Salvation Army, which has its workers all over the country, whether under prohibition the beating up of children by drunkards has grown greater or less!

Bugs, Bugs and Bugs!

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Very little publicity has been given locally to the Japanese beetle and other bugs that are devastating the green foliage. It is regrettable that action against them was not taken sooner.

The Mediterranean Fly. (Corsican Cooty) is a recent arrival in Muscat. Perhaps it was sent by Mr. Mussolini to discourage further emigration of expert fruit dealers.

We will have other bugs to combat, notably the new Morgan-Young bug of the Anglo-French-German Reparation "bum-bug." It would seem that this particular bug was about to devastate some more long green, and it would be advisable to tie up some more "tin cans" to catch this when the propaganda cage is opened.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES

Mrs. F. Pixley
Will Be Guest
Of Lady SharpWidow of Librettist Is Preparing to Spend
Summer Abroad.

By JEAN ELIOT.

AFTER spending a fortnight in Washington, Mrs. Frank Pixley will leave Tuesday for New York with Lady Sharp, of London. The two will sail soon for Europe, and Mrs. Pixley will spend the summer with Lady Sharp at her home in England. Lady Sharp also has been visiting in Washington, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ely Elliot Palmer, whose husband is U. S. Consul General in Bulgaria.

Mrs. Pixley is an inveterate globe trotter, having acquired the wanderlust when she and her husband roamed the world in search of the picturesque. She is the widow of Frank Pixley, famous as the author of librettos for "The Prince of Pilsen," "King Dodo," "Woodland" and numerous other musical plays which have delighted American audiences for the last two decades.

It was Mrs. Pixley, an ambitious young wife, who inspired her husband, then a dramatic critic on a Mid-Western newspaper, to undertake the writing of his first play. A little later they traveled all over Europe on the hunt for striking themes and had the time of their lives, although fame and wealth then seemed will-o'-the-wisps. Mrs. Pixley is now engaged in writing a volume of reminiscences. It may never be published, she says, but will be worth the effort for the joy in the writing and the memories it recalls.

One of the late Mr. Pixley's last books, "Thoughts and Things," a collection of casual verse, was dedicated to his wife as the inspiration of the work. Moreover, the book would never have been published without her aid. For Mr. Pixley used to jot down his brightest thoughts upon bits of paper, put them in his pocket or throw them in the waste basket and forget about them. And it was his wife who retrieved these fragments, passed upon them with an unerring judgment when they were collected and compiled them in book form.

Mrs. Pixley and her son, E. F. Pixley, left yesterday for their fruit ranch in the Willamette Valley of Oregon, to be gone until September.

Representative and Mrs. Henry Winfield Watson have motored to Washington from their country home in Pennsylvania to pass a few days. They will sail July 27 on the Levantine for Europe and will pass some time in Norway, Sweden and Russia.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elias Lane have been passing several days in New York, whence the latter sailed last evening to pass the summer in Europe. Mr. Lane will return to Washington Monday.

Gen. C. P. Summerall
To Be Guest at Dinner.
Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Edward Kreager will give a dinner tonight at the Congressional Country Club for 50 guests in honor of Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, and Mrs. Summerall.

Miss Ruth Yarnell, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Harry E. Yarnell, and Lieut. John Sylvester, who will be married this afternoon, were the guests for whom Lieut. and Mrs. Lionel Rowe gave a buffet supper last evening. Earlier in the day Miss Yarnell and her attendants had been entertained at luncheon at the Carlton, with Miss Caroline Johnson as hostess.

Maj. and Mrs. William P. Tompkins and their three sons are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hamilton, at their home, Stone Ridge, on the Rockville road. Maj. and Mrs. Tompkins have come from Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where the former has been stationed for some time, and will go to his new post, Fort McIntosh, at Laredo, Tex., where he will be in command at the end of August.

Mr. David Hunt Blair has returned to his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel after passing some time at Highpoint, N. C.

Mrs. Richard Parker Crenshaw will go to New York today to meet her son, Mr. Richard Parker Crenshaw, Jr. They will take a three weeks' motor trip through the Berkshires, after which Mr. Richard Parker Crenshaw, Jr., will join them in New York for a short stay.

The Rev. Dr. George W. Atkinson and Mrs. Atkinson have closed their house at 2800 Thirty-fifth street and left yesterday for San Francisco. They will sail July 8 for a stay of several months in Honolulu and will visit the South Sea Islands before returning to Washington.

Dr. Assim Bey and Dr. and Mrs. Hanssen-Fruse are accompanying Dr. Resik Bey on his tour. They are staying at the Willard.

The French Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel, will go to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., today to pass the week-end.

Mr. Keith Merrill has left for New York, whence he will go to Avalon, the Merrill place at Fridge's Crossing, Mass., to remain with Mrs. Merrill and the children until after the Fourth of July.

Mrs. Allen Rushton and her brother, Mr. Garnett Douglas, have returned from a trip to New York and are again with their mother, Mrs. Blair, at the Wardman Park Hotel.

'Little House'First Lady Accompanied
By Kin and Guests to Girl Scout Club.

Mrs. Hoover had luncheon yesterday at the Girl Scouts' "Little House." Others in the party were Mrs. Hoover's sister, Mrs. J. H. Large, Mrs. Large's son and daughter, Mr. Delano Large and Miss Janet Large; Mrs. Edward Bowman and Miss Martha Noyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Liggett, of Boston, who were guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House overnight, went yesterday to the Mayflower to remain several days. They were present at the White House garden party for the disabled veterans Thursday afternoon.

Parishioners of Historic Church to Give Tea.
The parishioners of Aquia Church will serve tea this afternoon in the old church grounds, just off the Richmond-Washington highway, two miles north of Stafford Court House and three miles south of Triangle.

The tea is for those who are interested in historic colonial churches. The parish was formed in 1687, the church being built in 1787. It is the most historic building in Stafford, the county of George Washington's boyhood. The Monroes, the Scotts and the Branks, one of them Lady Baltimore, worshipped there. Critics have said that Aquia is the best specimen of colonial church architecture in Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Williamson plan to close their parties at the Wardman Park Hotel on July 5 and start by motor for New Hampshire. They then will go to Nova Scotia and expect to be away several months.

Mrs. John W. Thomason has returned from Texas, accompanied by her niece, Miss Pauline Sheppard, of Fort Riley, Kan. She also has as her guest Miss Ruth Thomas, of Newport, who is her to attend the wedding of Miss Ruth Thomas and Lieut. John Sylvester this afternoon.

Col. and Mrs. W. N. Blapham entertained a company of sixteen at dinner last evening at the Plage Deauville at the Wardman Park Hotel. Col. and Mrs. W. N. Blapham also had guests dining with them. Among those who will give dinners at the Plage tonight are Maj. J. W. Loveland and Mrs. I. W. Horton.

Sigma Epsilon Sorority
Will Hold Dance Tonight.
The delegates to the annual convention of the Sigma Epsilon National Sorority were entertained at dinner last night by the executive council of the Washington chapters, and will be guests of the grand council at a luncheon today. The retiring officers are: Miss Dorothy G. Canfield, secretary; Miss Alma Miller, treasurer, and Miss Helen Page, corresponding secretary. The chapters of various cities are represented. Washington delegates include Miss Evelyn Gascoigne, Miss Jean Foley, Miss Ethel Deddie, Miss Catherine Lorenz, and Miss Dorothy Gardner. The hostess for the convention is Miss Catherine McDonald, and the chairman, Miss Helen McAuliffe, of Beta Chapter, will be toastmistress at the luncheon. A dance will bring the convention to a close tonight.

The second of a series of informal week-end dinner-dances under patronage of the Art Promoters Club will be held this afternoon and evening at Forest Glen, with Mr. Wallace Wright as host.

Among the guests will be club members and their friends, including Mrs. Minnie B. Henderson, Miss Caroline E. Gasser, Mr. William Gray, Miss Beva Cuzzort, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Martin, Miss Ruth Farmer, Capt. H. Turner Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. John Gray Burdick, Capt. Ralph Duffy, Miss Mittie Burch, Miss Gertrude Richardson Brigham, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dawson Trundle and Miss Madge Boien.

DIVORCEE'S LETTERS READ AT BALM SUIT

Defense in $250,000 Action
Seeks to Prove Woman
Was "Gold-Digger."

NOTES ARDENTLY WORDED

Chicago, June 28 (A.P.).—Further details of the shattered romance of Ann Livingston and Franklin S. Harding were revealed today in letters read at the trial of her $250,000 breach of promise suit against him.

The letters, written in Tulsa, Okla., by the 29-year-old divorcee to the 62-year-old oil burner manufacturer in Chicago, started with the modest salutation "My dear Mr. Harding," and advanced through "Dear Franklin" to "My Own Darling." They revealed the writer "jumping with joy" at the prospect of seeing Harding.

The letters also revealed that Ann did not quit her secretarial job in Tulsa and come to Chicago because of $200 in debts. Although she wrote in one of the epistles that she disliked having her gray-haired suitor paying the debts, a later letter thanked him for a check.

"Your letter was a sweet tonic in which you told of a love song being sung to you over the radio, and of your relating it to me," she wrote. "Your money can arrive any time now."

Ann sat with her head back and eyes closed to listen to the letters. Harding nervously tapped the banister of the witness stand.

"My own dearest, you can't imagine how I am scheming to come to Chicago," she wrote in one of the early letters. And again: "Why, of course, I would love you dearly if I was there

White House Dogs to Get First Two New Licenses

Tut, Belgian police dog, and Englewood Gillette, a setter, dogs of President Hoover, will receive tags one and two from the hands of Chatham M. Towers, District tax collector, Monday morning. Not only will the White House dogs receive the first two tags issued but their names will be engraved on the back of the tag, Towers said.

All dog licenses in the District expire Sunday night and new tags must be purchased Monday by the owners. Towers said he expects to issue about 17,000 dog licenses in the next fiscal year. No tags will be sold until Monday morning, the first day of the new fiscal year.

with you. You thrill me. What a dream it all seems." Again: "You bet you can call me sweetheart—it won't make me mad. I'm almost convinced that you really do care a little bit."

When attorneys couldn't agree whether Ann wrote "heaps of kisses" or "hugs and kisses" at the end of one letter, she obligingly looked at it and told them it was "hugs and kisses."

Then she leaned back and closed her eyes again.

"I can be happy and gay once more," she told him after the check came. Then: "I am hoping against hope to find my peace and joy there with you. I want you to teach and guide me. My heart is all flutter and I dance as I go along."

Defense attorneys are attempting to show by the letters that Ann was the aggressor—that, expert as a gold-digger, she deliberately set her cap for the gray-haired manufacturer and hinted him into a proposal of marriage.

Budget Polishing Today Is Planned

Commission Will Complete
1931 Estimates Before
Member Goes Away.

The finishing touches are to be put on the District estimates for 1931 at a meeting of the board of commissioners today. The estimates for public buildings and grounds are the last to be considered and the estimates are expected to be completed and sent to the budget bureau next week.

The meeting today was called because it was desired to complete the job before Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro goes on a three weeks vacation starting Monday. The Commissioner is planning a motor trip through Virginia and a stay at a New Jersey seashore resort.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty is to go on his vacation when Taliaferro returns, but when Col. William B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner, will get away for a vacation is uncertain because of the pressure of business before the utilities commission of which he is a member. Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the Board of Commissioners, already is on his vacation.

War Department Buys 299 New Plane Engines

Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation F. Trubee Davison yesterday approved contracts for 299 airplane engines to cost $1,879,002, it was announced yesterday at the War Department.

The Pratt-Whitney Co. will furnish 180 "Wasp" engines to be used in pursuit planes. These and 54 engines the Wright Co. will sell the Army are included. The remaining 65 engines will be purchased from the Curtiss Co. These will be used in observation planes. The 54 Wright engines are for transport planes.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

When Paul Whiteman's special train, with his band and Ted Husing, radio announcer formerly connected with WRC but now of the CBS, aboard, was creeping across the continent bound for the Universal studios to make "The King of Jazz," the title role wired Universal to have a Steinway Imperial Grand piano ready for him at the studio, so that Roy Bargy, formerly leader of the Benson Orchestra of Chicago, but now Whiteman's pianist, could do his stuff.

A reply was sent to Whiteman that a Steinway Imperial would cost $5,000 and anyway there was a long Los Angeles waiting list for that particular model, so they would get him something else. The maestro's succinct response was: "Get a Steinway Imperial Grand."

And what do you think he found when he reached the studio?

Correct! A Steinway Imperial Grand.

Adolph Zukor, who recently made the flat declaration that Paramount-Famous-Lasky is not for sale, has also determined to continue in the post of president of the corporation which he founded. This idea of being made chairman of the board makes no hit with the shrewd Hungarian. To a representative of William Johnston's Motion Picture News, en route from St. Louis to Atlantic City from one sales convention to the next, he remarked: "I know what 'chairman of the board of directors' means."

"The first month that he is on the job the rest of the directors sit around and listen to him a little bit. The second month they pay less attention to him and when the third month comes along they look at him when he suggests something and say: 'Why pay any attention to him anyway; he's too old to know anything about the business.'"

Yes, crazy life a fox—or without the capital, if you like, it's only a georgie-shute, at best.

The regular film extra is rapidly passing from the picture business, according to Dave Allen, head of the Central Casting offices in Hollywood. Talking pictures are entirely responsible for making practically all of the 10,000 extras registered with the C. C. O. unavailable for the current and future productions made on the West Coast.

Allen and his staff do not intend to take the word of any player that he is a capable linguist in any foreign tongue. Arrangements have been made for the employment of expert interpreters to converse in particular languages with the extras, and each player will be classified anew on the basis of what is demonstrated in these tests.

At last the time seems to have come when it is really possible to talk one's self into a job—or out.

Simultaneously with the closing last night of the Rialto Theater, leased by Tom Moore to Universal, comes the announcement to the trade that Universal has 332 pictures on the 1929-30 schedule.

"Water, water, everywhere but—"

David Wark Griffith, despite coast rumors to the contrary, is to remain with United Artists and is now in the East in search of a tremendous theme either novel or play, that will lend itself to production as a motion picture with talk.

Some one should warn the "old master" not to fall for a script called "A Fool and a Girl," a play of the California hop fields, written by a bird named D. W. Griffith and presented for a few minutes at the Columbia Theater some fifteen or twenty years ago with Fannie Ward playing the latter half of the title. The producer played the first half!

Sam Rubin, the cherubic publicist of the local Loew houses, evidently is trying to build up a veracity fixation in the minds of the photoplay deals of the Capital. Says a postcard from Newport:

"Here is the first authentic special in the way of fab stories for the 1929-30 season. I have been fishing for three days now and haven't caught a darn thing."

How to start a rainy spell: Buy 75 feet of new garden hose to add to the 50 feet you already have, so as to reach the matyturium down on the east side of the garage, then sit down on the bench under the umbrella tree and wait.

Anyhow, it worked in my case.

Tune in ...for a treat TONIGHT AT 8:00 P. M. ON STATION WRC

A special program sponsored by General Electric and broadcast from New York over a nation-wide hook-up of 42 stations

The General Electric Orchestra with Nat Shilkret Conducting

This very interesting program is presented for the purpose of acquainting you with the high merit of General Electric Fans. The General Electric Company has been making fans for 36 years. They have built, in that period, two and a half millions of them. More than half of these are still in use. Their prices range from $5 upwards. Their average life is about 20 years. Why be hot when a good electric fan costs so little and will run for an hour on a half a cent's worth of current?

THE TITLE

In everyday business life thousands of titles to valuable property changes hands.

Before any of this property is transferred, every detail pertaining to the title is carefully examined. If found perfect the guarantee company will guarantee the title; but if there is one break, the title cannot be guaranteed.

The children who have been given the advantages of a proper moral education have a title to successfully fight life's battle, which is the most perfect title that can be given them.

Parents may send their children to Sunday School, to Church and see that they are affiliated with numerous religious organizations, which in itself is a great step toward perfecting their title, but there is very apt to be a serious break if the proper example is not set in the home.

Yours is the same responsibility as that of the guarantee company.

Be Sure That Your Child's Title, Which Is Your Heritage to Her or Him, Is in Perfect Condition.

STEVINSON BEATS PEACOCK IN CONGRESSIONAL FINAL

Columbia Ace Wins by 1 Up Margin

Peacock Reaches Final by 19-Hole Victory Over Sasser.

Stevinson Wins Easily in Semifinals Over Miller, 7 and 5.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

MILLER B. STEVINSON, of the Columbia Club and District, yesterday won the invitation tournament of the Congressional Country Club, defeating Roger Peacock, an 18-year-old member of the Indian Spring Club, by the narrow margin of 1 up, and achieving his first victory this year. He was eliminated in the Washington Golf and Country Club event, was defeated in the final round of the Chevy Chase tournament by Harry G. Pitt, 6 and 5, and withdrew from the Columbia Club competition after qualifying in the twenty-ninth position with 70. He reached the final round yesterday with an easy victory over George F. Miller, Manor, winning the first six holes in consecutive order and finishing 7 up and 5 to play.

He easily showed his superiority over the field in his early matches, winning from B. F. Colliard, 4 and 4, and from Robert C. Mird, 4 and 3. At the conclusion of his match against Miller yesterday morning he had played 42 holes since the beginning of the tournament and had lost only four.

While Stevenson was thus breezing along, Peacock was meeting with real convention, culminating yesterday morning in a nine-hole contest before he defeated Larry Sasser, of the Indian Spring Club in the semifinal round. Sasser, who was 1 down on the eighteenth tee, squared the match when he drove the eighteenth green, 254 yards, and holed out in two putts for a birdie 3, but lost on the extra hole when he took three putts from a distance of about 12 feet.

Storm Delays Final

Of Championship Flight.

The final round yesterday afternoon between Stevenson and Peacock was delayed by a storm that swept over the course, although after the players started the weather conditions were ideal. With the first hole halved in play, Peacock won the second hole after Stevenson, driving into the rough, had failed to reach the green with his second shot. The third was halved in play, but Stevenson won the fourth when Peacock drove into a trap and the fifth when he ran down a 10-foot putt for a birdie 4, Peacock having missed both his drive and his second shot.

Then Stevenson won the seventh after Peacock had stymied himself, making him 5 up. On the eighth hole Stevenson took three strokes to reach the green, while Peacock, playing his third shot out the right-hand trap guarding the green, ran down a long putt for a birdie 4 and a win. Stevenson's ball was about 50 feet from the cup, Peacock took three putts and only secured a half. He was 1 up at the turn.

Peacock Squares Match

On Tenth Hole.

Peacock squared the match by winning the tenth, Stevenson again taking three putts.

The eleventh was the crucial hole and, as the result demonstrated, Peacock's undoing. He hooked his ball over the green and, with a half-point second, went into a trap. He played out but when he missed his putt for a 4, conceded the hole to Stevenson, whose ball, on the green from the tee, was holed out in a par 3.

Seventeenth Hole Halved

In Birdie 3.

The seventeenth was halved in birdie three, Stevenson's approach left him a putt of not over 12 inches, which he easily negotiated. With the eighteenth hole in play, the match was over. At the end of the battle young Peacock was the recipient of many congratulations. The cards:

Out—Stevinson, 5 5 4 4 4 5 4—39

Peacock, 5 4 3 5 4 4 4—39

In—Stevinson, 4 4 3 5 4 4 4—39

Peacock, 4 4 3 5 4 4 4—39

RAIN LIMITS ARMY NET MATCHES

Col. Johnson Advances to Quarter Finals at Columbia.

ONLY five matches were run off yesterday in the United States Army tennis championships at Columbia Country Club before rain made the courts unplayable. None of the scheduled quarter-final singles matches was played, and as a result of the forced postponement, the singles title will be decided Monday instead of Sunday.

Col. Walter Johnson, middle-aged veteran and one of the most prominent figures in Army tennis circles for the past decade, put in a late appearance from Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and immediately caught up with the leaders, although he had to play only one match.

Striking accurately and showing his usual heady game, Col. Johnson won his first-round encounter with Capt. Hugh W. Rowan, of Washington, Tex., by a score of 6-3, 6-2. This and the default of Capt. F. H. Newgard, Fort Sill, Okla., who withdrew Thursday on account of the death of his mother, placed Col. Johnson in the quarter-finals. He will meet the winner of Lieut. Baker-Lieut. Mathews second-round match today.

Lieut. David D. Hedekin, singles runner-up, failed to appear and tournament officials defaulted his first-round singles match to Lieut. E. B. Mathews, of Fort Monmouth, N. J. Lieut. Hedekin was en route from Montgomery, Ala., by airplane, but landed Thursday at Atlanta owing to bad weather. Tournament officials are hoping that he will arrive today, so that he can go through with the doubles, in which he has drawn a first-round bye.

Yesterday's results and today's schedule follow:

SINGLES.

FIRST ROUND—Lieut. E. B. Mathews, Fort Monmouth, N. J., vs. Lieut. David D. Hedekin, Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga.; default: Col. Walter Johnson, Fort Sam Houston, Tex., vs. Lieut. Hedekin.

SECOND ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

THIRD ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

FOURTH ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

FIFTH ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

SIXTH ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

SEVENTH ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

EIGHTH ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

NINTH ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

TENTH ROUND—Col. Johnson defeated Lieut. Hedekin, 6-3, 6-2.

In chapter six the steamer OX is found and brought back to the landing place of the yacht. Here it is repaired and the goods of the yacht transferred to it. Willy Whigmore was found in one of the staterooms bound and deserted by the crew. The party moves aboard the steamer and plan to set off for San Francisco in the morning. Old King Brady falls asleep on the watch and what follows is told in this chapter.

CHAPTER VII.

Harry Humberts Abe Miranda.

The stateroom occupied by the Bradys was next to the one in which the gold had been stowed away. It was almost 1 o'clock when Young King Brady was awakened by voices in the cabin. At first he thought it was Capt. Harding talking to his chief. But finally he raised up with the growing sense that something was wrong. He suddenly realized the voices were strange. A woman's voice mingled with the others. He began to have crawling sensations all over him. He slipped out of his bunk and clapping his ear to the keyhole, listened.

"Heavens! They are talking Spanish! What can it mean? He could understand a little of it and had no difficulty in making out the meaning.

"We've got the doctor, the captain, the engineer and the old man," a man's voice said. "As for the crew they don't seem to be making any fuss although we have called 'em in. Let Tony bring the little duke and we'll find out what has been doing."

Someone left the cabin. Harry hurried into his cabin. That the OX had been captured was certain. "If I don't hurry I'll find myself a prisoner and helpless," Harry muttered to himself.

Reaching his small revolver in an inner pocket, he clapped on his hat and, boldly threw open the door. A big grapping fellow sat on the cabin table talking with a smaller man who had Indian features. Both sprang to their feet as Harry appeared. The big man whipped out a revolver.

Harry threw up his hands. "You are Abe Miranda!" he exclaimed. "I am Young King Brady, I surrender. Do me the favor of having a few words with you."

"I don't know whether I will or not," he answered hesitantly.

"You were Jack Dutton's nurse at the sanitarium weren't you?" went on Harry. "You learned the location of the Belle of Bolton from him, didn't you?"

"I did. Say, have you found the gold yet?"

"Partner," Harry said. "We have found not only the wreck, but we have recovered all that treasure left of the treasure, and the concealed location of that stateroom door there."

"What?" cried Miranda in great excitement.

"Oh, it is just as I tell you. Shall I open the door and show you the gold?"

"Yes! No! Wait! Why do you tell me all this when you are Old King Brady's partner?"

"For that very reason. The old man is a fool. I want to stand in with a smart fellow like you and take my chances on what you will allow me."

"Listen, Brady, our talk is not understood by this fellow. Don't show the gold yet. Don't let anybody else what you have told me."

"All right, I understand."

"Would the engineer stand in with us, do you think?"

"You must be a mind reader. It was the very thing I was thinking. He is only too willing. He agrees with me that it is nonsense to take this treasure back to Prison."

"Boy, you're a brick," said the greaser hurriedly. "Keep a still tongue. How much is there of it?"

"About half a million."

A movement at the head of the stairs brought the conversation to an end. Harry dropped down into a chair at Miranda's glance.

Now a man with still more marked Indian features appeared, dragging Willy Whigmore, who was trembling with fear. Behind them came a young half-breed Mexican girl.

Willy dropped on his knees before Miranda, and in a dismal voice called out: "Help me, Brady. Don't let him do me up!"

Harry paid no attention whatever. He just stood and watched the man.

"Listen to me. If you open your mouth about these things gold on board the OX I'll kill you and throw you to the sharks; but if you'll keep still I'll set you free as soon as we start."

Willy's face was a study. "I don't understand," he gasped. "But I'll do as you say."

Miranda escorted Willy back to his stateroom and locked him in. There was then an excited conversation among the three Mexicans and Miranda. At last they left the room and Abe looked the door.

"Now, Brady. Let me see it!" he whispered excitedly.

Harry handed him the key to the treasure room. "You go ahead and help yourself," he said. "You're boss now."

He opened the door and Harry followed him in. Abe gave a glance at one of the boxes, which satisfied him that the gold was there all right. Harry learned that the men with him were friends of his from the village of San Ramon and that the girl was his sister.

"Well, then, the case is simple," said Harry. "Wait till daylight. Send your crowd ashore to the wreck of the Belle of Bolton. I'll soon show you where the lies. As soon as we have got rid of them we will bring up the prisoners one by one and force them to enter a boat and pull ashore. If you don't stand for killing I, J. and I guess none of them will refuse with a revolver at his head. Heavens, man! You don't know what a satisfaction it will be for me to pull loose from Old King Brady for good and all."

It seemed strange to Harry that he was able to pull the wool over Abe Miranda's eyes so completely.

Returning to the cabin, they remained plotting and planning until morning dawned.

Old King Brady lay with his hands bound behind him. He was a prisoner in the engine room of the OX. Near him on the floor was Capt. Harding. Dr. Stoppenham and Engineer Tubby in another corner of the little apartment. Two wicked looking greasers, armed with Yankee revolvers, sat near the door.

The doctor had been growling all night. Old King Brady was out of sorts with himself for having been asleep and getting them in such a jam. Capt. Harding was annoyed because the greasers did not understand English and could not make them move. Tubby regretted that he did not have time to turn the hot steam on them!

It was a puzzling situation, indeed. Hours had elapsed since Willy had been dragged out of the engine room. Just as things seemed almost hopeless Miranda opened the door and walked in.

Dr. Stoppenham assailed him at once. "Come, Abe!" he cried. "Let's have an end to this fool business. Haven't I always used you well? We know what you are after, of course. Set us free, and—"

"Shut up!" cried Miranda, waving a revolver which he now displayed. "I'm not here to talk. Times have changed since I worked for you, doctor."

"But, Abe," began the doctor, but he was silenced by a brutal kick.

"It's you I want," said Abe, advancing to the engineer.

"Yes, yes," said the doctor, and ordered Tubby to get up and follow him. Abe helped him to his feet, and one of the greasers took him out of the room. Abe followed.

Old King Brady rolled over on his back, lay still for a moment and then with a tremendous effort, sprang to his feet. Instantly the other greaser rushed at him. Quick as thought Old King Brady threw out his leg and tripped the man up. He fell with great force and was knocked senseless.

"By heavens! You'll be the death of us all!" gasped the doctor.

"Over with you!" was the detective's answer. The man obeyed and Old King Brady attacked the cord which bound him with his teeth and in a moment had set him free.

"Put your hand inside my coat. A knife—have you got it?" the detective cried. The doctor gained his feet.

"Yes, Yes. There, the job is done. You are free, Mr. Brady."

"Look to the captain there. I'll secure this greaser."

In a minute they had him tied, hand and foot. There was nothing to do now but wait until the other fellow returned. Old King Brady stepped to the door and opened it slightly. In a moment he said, "This is our time to wait. My partner is alive and working his little game too. They are all going ashore in the boat."

As daylight came Harry suggested that the engineer be brought on deck. When he came up Harry placed a chair for him. But the man could not understand. Harry being free and acting in such manner.

"Now, Mr. Tubby," said Young King Brady, "I've got a proposition to put to you. Circumstances have changed a bit, and my friend here and I intend to see fair play. We have to have an engineer to help us in our plans. What do you say to coming in with us and getting your share?"

Tubby "tumbled" in an instant, for Harry gave him a wink.

Harry then aroused the men and told them of the treasure on board the wrecked steamer. The result was what might have been expected—they could not get ashore quick enough. Harry and Abe managed to find a plausible excuse for returning to the OX.

Harry had instructed Tubby not to move lest he excite suspicion, but to be ready to jump to his assistance when the time came. It had come now. Harry intended to tackle Miranda as soon as he put his hand on the door of the engine-room. But just then Old King Brady sprang from the stairway.

"Up hands, my man!" he cried, as the captain and the doctor came tumbling up the stairs after him.

"Yes, and keep them up!" cried Harry. "The force is over. Brother Miranda, and the Bradys are masters of the OX!" It was a complete surprise to Abe Miranda, and a complete triumph for the Bradys.

And so the OX steamed away and kept steadily on her course until she steamed through the Golden Gate. There the gold was safely banked, and later properly divided up among the captain, the crew, and the Bradys, of course, got their share, the balance going to Dr. Stoppenham and the Whigmore estate. Willy was left out of it entirely as he richly deserved.

VETERANS' LARGE BLACK LIST FOR CONGRESS FOES

Foreign Wars Body Would Bar Legislators Who Ignore Need.

BOXING FOR DISTRICT
IS SOUGHT BY GROUP

More Than 40 Resolutions
Adopted at Encampment to End Tonight.

A blacklist of Congressmen who neglect to give proper favorable attention to the demands, desires and needs of the ex-service men among their constituents is provided in a resolution which was passed unanimously by the six posts of Veterans of Foreign Wars of the District at the second session of their tenth annual encampment convention at Western High School last night.

Under the provisions of the resolution, a record is to be kept by the V. F. W. department here of the stand taken by every Senator and member of the House of Representatives with regard to all legislation affecting veterans of any war or any branch of service, and "this information to be promulgated to posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the respective districts of Congressmen at least one month before each national election."

While it is understood that this resolution will require the further approval of the national encampment of the V. F. W. at St. Paul in August, it is expected that the proposal will receive the same support from the entire organization than as it was accorded by the District department last night.

Two Score Resolutions.

More than two score resolutions were adopted in all, another of the more important being one to bring before the national encampment at St. Paul a plea that each individual post throughout the nation be urged to express upon its Congressional delegates the desirability of approving a measure to legalize boxing in the District. Such a measure is now being prepared for introduction by Representative Rogers of Johnson, of South Dakota, and Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, the bill being patterned after the Wisconsin boxing law, which permits bouts of ten rounds, no decision, under supervision of three boxing commissioners who were without salary.

It was pointed out that other veterans' organizations throughout the country are staging boxing bouts as the most successful means of raising funds for the assistance of disabled and needy veterans and their families, whereas this source of revenue is now denied to residents of the District, and although the various veterans' organizations have been trying for several years to get local action, their efforts have been unavailing and they are now taking this means to get results from outside sources.

Home Purchase Sought.

Another resolution petitioned the District Commissioners to permit the District to solicit funds publicly for the purchase of a home for the veterans to carry the matter to Congress if the Commissioners continue to withhold from the veterans the same privileges of solicitation now accorded the Community Chest.

Purchase of a central home to serve as a headquarters for all veterans of the District was provided in another resolution, while others provided for establishment of a central home for the medical relief of veterans, and a medical relief officer representing the V. F. W. in the Veterans' Bureau. One resolution urged support for bills now before the House and Senate to increase pensions for veterans disabled by loss of limbs to $105 monthly for less than a hand, and $115 monthly for loss of an arm or leg, and $125 monthly for loss of an arm or leg and a hand. Increased pensions were also urged for veterans who were intended to secure medical care and attention for medical conditions of internal organs of the organization.

Section of officers is scheduled as the primary subject to come before the closing session of the encampment tonight.

Suit for Support
Dismissed in Court

Action by George Burnap's
Wife Closed as Order

Follows Appeal.

An order dismissing a suit for maintenance, instituted against George Burnap, city planner and landscaper, was issued in July, 1928, by Mrs. Jeanette G. Burnap, wife of George Burnap, who was then a member of the Senate. The action followed a recent decision of the District Court of Appeals, which reversed a decision of the District Supreme Court in favor of Mrs. Burnap, who was granted alimony of $100 a month. Mrs. Burnap instituted the suit on charge of cruelty and inadequate support, but the appellate tribunal found the cruelty charges were not proven.

The Burnaps were married in Paris, France, December 8, 1924, according to the bill of complaint, and lived together less than four months. Burnap claimed his wife left him without cause and that he did not know of her whereabouts until she instituted the suit. He was represented by Attorney John Watterson.

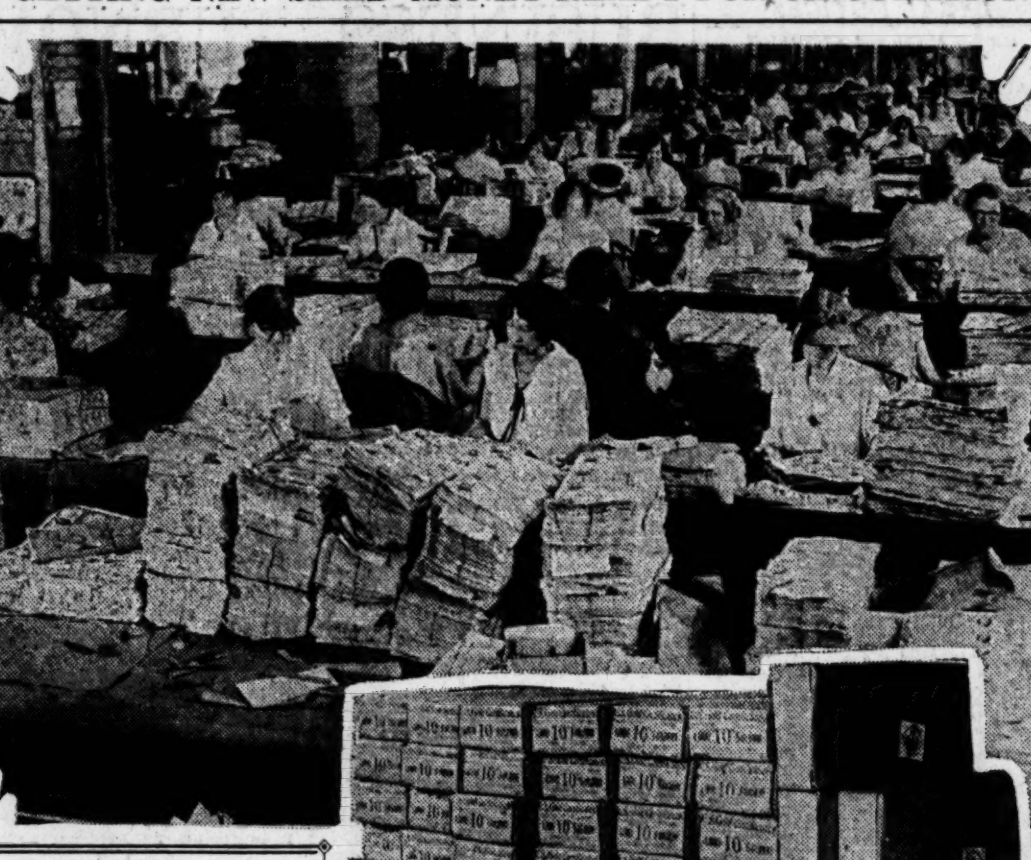

Historic Mansion Sold
To Secretary Stimson

Purchase of historic Woodley, 3000 Cathedral avenue, by Secretary of State Stimson from Capt. and Mrs. Hayne Ellis through the real estate office of London, Inc., was announced yesterday. The house, built after 1793 by Philip Barton Key, chief counsel of Washington, and uncle of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner," served as a summer home for President Van Buren, Tyler and Buchanan, and George Washington frequently visited it.

The house is true Southern Colonial architecture of its period and contains entrance hall, drawing room, parlor, dining room, conservatory, library, pantry, kitchen, eight bedrooms, five baths and servants' quarters.

Brother Gets Guns and Watches.
An imposing arsenal of revolvers and two guns, aggregating $177.50, aside from five watches, valued at $25.50, were stolen from the Cavasbaugh & Steadley store at 277 K street yesterday night, according to reports made to police.

School for Secretaries
Holds Commencement

Science is creating new opportunities in business every day, John M. Malin, president of the National Bureau of Education, told the 110 graduates of the Washington School for Secretaries at the commencement exercises in the National Press Club Auditorium last night. Louis B. Montfort, president of the school, presented the diploma to the graduates. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. Dr. John C. Palmer, pastor of the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church. A musical program was given by the Misses Helen Walten, Harriette Mitchell, Ruth Linder, Ruth Gilbert and Martha Stevens.

Two Boys Slightly Cut
While Walking Barefoot

A small-sized epidemic of injuries to barefoot boys broke out yesterday afternoon following the heavy downpour of rain, two youngsters requiring hospital treatment for cuts sustained when they stepped on broken glass while frolicking in mud puddles.

Thomas Finney, 11 years old, of 48 Foxall road northwest, received his injury while playing on a lot at the rear of his home and was taken to the George Washington University Hospital, where he was taken when he began screaming on alighting from a street car downtown.

No injuries were found by attendants at Gallinger Hospital, who obtained her name and address from a considerable difficulty. The woman advanced no further information, and constantly repeating "something about a black bag," the hospital reported.

Judge Aids 'Labor Shortage'
By Giving 2 Men Freedom

Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court yesterday took steps to remedy the labor lack situation at Sparrows Point, Md., if such a situation exists there.

William Johnson, colored, was brought before the judge on a charge of vagrancy. The colored man declared he was on his way from his Memphis (Tenn.) home to Sparrows Point to obtain a position, but lost his way and was arrested. Johnson declared there were plenty of jobs open at the Maryland town. On condition that he re-

Trio Taken With 360 Quarts Of Rum in Busy 60 Minutes

Same Squad Makes Triple Seizure at One Place in Southeast; Men Arrested and Charged After Cars Are Captured.

Three alleged rumrunners were captured, one after he had deserted his automobile, three autos confiscated and 360 quarts of whiskey seized by Sgt. George M. Little's special police squad last night in the southeast section of the city. Two captures were made half a block apart and within 20 minutes of each other, and the last less than an hour later in the same neighborhood.

Sgt. Little was forced to exhibit his speed of foot to capture the first of the three men. The man, who was jumped from his car while it was in motion, allowing it to crash into a tree, Pinkney A. Elnahaw, 28 years old, of 1601 East Capitol street, was charged with transportation and possession of 24 quarts of corn whiskey found in the wrecked roadster and he also booked for reckless driving. According to Sgt. Little, Elnahaw was first sighted at Eleventh and M streets southeast. The chase began, and Elnahaw fled into the curb. They reported finding 48 quarts of corn whiskey, and arrested Cephas Banks, colored, 38 years old, of 2649 Sheridan road southeast. Banks was charged with possession of transportation and possession of whiskey, and was held for $2,500 bond.

Little and his two companions, T. O. Murray and Leo Montgomery, having booked Elnahaw at the Sixth Precinct about 9:20 o'clock, returned to their lookout station at Eleventh and M streets southeast. Not more than 20 minutes elapsed until they saw another suspicious machine.

Just what was done in this regard and when, will depend on several factors, including the rapidly with which the Federal building program is pushed and the character of the buildings which are bought. Eventually all of the buildings now standing on the four squares will be torn down to be replaced by the new municipal buildings.

Detention House May Not Move.

It is not at all certain, however, that any change will be made in the location of the House of Detention, now located in a rented building at Sixth street and Louisiana avenue. The cost of the new building, which is the subject of the House of Detention and Woman's Bureau of the Police Department may be so much that little or nothing could be saved on the rent now paid for the present quarters, which are leased on an annual basis.

Occupants of buildings in the square, which will not be summarily ousted, but will be permitted to occupy them until such time as the development of the center demands their vacation. In the mean time the District will become a land of no collection rent for the premises it buys.

Congress already has appropriated $3,000,000 for purchase of land for the new building, and $500,000 to be requested by the Commissioners in the estimates for 1931, plus $500,000 for construction work.

Four Persons Treated
For Dog and Cat Bites

Dog and cat bites, mounting daily in number, necessitated medical aid yesterday for four persons, one of whom was reported incapacitated, however.

Three were bitten by dogs. The victims were: Nellie G. Ryan, 56 years old, of 324 Tenth street southeast; Nellie Bailey, 11 years old, colored, 1143 Twenty-second street northwest; and a 24-year-old girl, 401 O street northwest, was bitten by a pet cat.

She was removed to Emergency Hospital in a passing automobile, and treated by Dr. Rutkowski, who said that while her foot is probably fractured her condition is not serious.

Woman Sues to Recover
His Auto From Police

Suit for replevin for recovery of an automobile against Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and Capt. Maurice Collins, commander of the Seventh Precinct, was instituted yesterday in the District Supreme Court by Herbert Glassman, trading as the Glassman Sales Co., of 2101 Fourteenth street northwest.

MUNICIPAL CENTER PLAN TO BE PUSHED BY COMMISSIONERS

Purchasing Committee Will Probably Be Named at Session Today.

BUILDING FOR COURTS
IS FIRST ON PROGRAM

Old Plants on New Site May Be Remodeled Soon as Temporary Quarters.

Plans for the development of the municipal center are to be whipped into shape at a meeting of the District Commissioners today.

Appointment of a purchasing committee of three District officials is to be considered and probably will be made, it was said yesterday. This committee probably will be composed of Maj. L. T. Collins, Assistant Engineer, Commissioner William F. Richards, assessor, and Melvin C. Hazen, surveyor.

Purchase and condemnation of property in the four squares where the center is to be located, between Third and Sixth streets, Pennsylvania avenue and Judiciary Square, are to be pushed rapidly, and the commissioners expected actual construction of the center to be begun within a year.

Courts Building First.

The first unit to be constructed will be the courts building, in which will be housed the Police, Municipal and Tax Court. The courts building will be for the recorder of deeds office, now located in a rented building, where the danger of the destruction of invaluable records by fire has been repeatedly stressed.

Remodeling of some of the buildings on the site also is to be provided for. Some of the buildings which are expected to be placed temporarily in buildings already built on the center site include the juvenile court, the Traffic Bureau, the testing laboratory of the Highway Department, and possibly the First Precinct police station.

Representatives on the joint committee are Jerome Panchell, Commercial Motor Vehicle Owners Association; Will Jorg, Washington Chamber of Commerce; Charles H. Frame, Merchants and Manufacturers Association of Washington; George Offutt, Jr., of the National Automobile Club; and Virginia Milk Producers Association; L. A. Stiles, District of Columbia Bakers Association; Guy N. Church, Arlington Chamber of Commerce; and Thomas R. Keith, Fairfax Chamber of Commerce.

Clara W. Byrd, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, wrote a letter yesterday to Gov. Byrd, expressing the gratitude of Washington business firms to the governor's intention to issue a proclamation for the reciprocity plan.

Various Claims Allowed.

Other claims which are being approved and sent the Commissioners for payment involve cases where property owners were not properly served with formal notice of condemnation proceedings affecting their properties. The claims have been filed by the property owners in such instances as:

Score of claims have been filed with the District for refunds of payments collected improperly by the District, and several have been paid. Exactly how many claims are pending, or the amount of them, however, is not known. Brice declaring that he has not made any claim, he does not intend to do so, he says, because the number of claims and the total is constantly changing.

CITY PLANS TO TEST TAX REFUND EDICTS FOR TRUCK COURTESY

Court Rulings in Several Assessment Cases.

WASHINGTON TRADE AND CIVIC
GROUP GRATEFUL AS BYRD
PERMITS RECIPROCITY.

VARIOUS CLAIMS ARE PAID
DARR WRITES GOVERNOR

Disatisfied with existing court decisions as a guide in paying claims for property assessment under the Borah law against triangular lots, Corporation Counsel William W. Brice is planning to take additional cases involving such assessments into court.

Under decisions of the District Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, the District must refund to owners of triangular lots moneys collected from them as special assessments for street paving under the Borah law. But study of the court decision in the so-called Johnson case, it is said, has left District officials in doubt on several points involved in similar cases, and it is planned to carry other cases to court for decision.

Test Case Is Sought.

Just when this will be done has not been determined, Brice said, adding that it is desired to take into court a case which would bring about a decision on the several doubtful points.

Many claims for refunds already have been passed on by the corporation counsel and sent to the District Commissioners for approval of the payment of the claims. These involve refunds of assessments levied against properties in rural or undeveloped areas, such as have been declared by the courts to be improper assessments because the benefits derived by the owners do not equal the assessments charged against them.

Various Claims Allowed.

Other claims which are being approved and sent the Commissioners for payment involve cases where property owners were not properly served with formal notice of condemnation proceedings affecting their properties. The claims have been filed by the property owners in such instances as:

VICTORY REPORTED IN BATTLE AGAINST BOGUS K OF C OATH

Supreme Officers Gather in City for Session Today;
Call on Hoover.

PROTESTANT PASTORS,
TWO WOMEN CONVICTED

Propaganda Used in Political Campaign Traced to Reformation.

The legal war against peddlers of the bogus Knights of Columbus oath, which began immediately after the last presidential election, has ended in victory in every sector, Luke E. Hart, of St. Louis, will tell the board of directors of that organization at its quarterly meeting in the Willard Hotel today.

Hart, who is a supreme advocate of the order, will report that he and other K. of C. attorneys have brought about the conviction of six persons in various sections of the country on libel charges and expect to get two more convictions. In no case was there an acquittal.

Of those prosecuted, two were Protestant ministers and two were women.

Used as Campaign Propaganda.

The defendants in every case were accused of disseminating the oath during the last presidential campaign in an effort to bar the cause of Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate.

The supreme officers of the Knights of Columbus explained here yesterday, however, that the legal drive against those who were circulating the oath was held up until after the campaign for fear that action at that time might have been construed as a partisan political move.

The "oath," according to the Knights of Columbus, has been traced back to the centuries immediately following the Reformation, and was charged that Catholics, particularly priests, vowed to exterminate Protestants. It followed the Jesuits to this country and eventually bobbed up as an oath of the Knights of Columbus.

Would Burn "Heretics."

The "oath" terms all Protestants "heretics" and supposedly pledges all Knights of Columbus to wage war, secretly and openly, against all Protestants and Masons, and to "hang, burn, waste, boil, starve and strangle" all those who refuse to join the order, as well as provide themselves with arms and ammunition for service in "the militia of the Pope when called on."

The oath was first attributed to the K. of C. in a congressional campaign in Pennsylvania in 1913 and has been revived in its present form in every campaign in which a Catholic was a candidate.

Masons Denounce "Oath."
